Our Park

Do we people of Andover appreciate this beautiful spot? Do we realize the time, labor and money that has been spent to bring it to its present fine condition? I see very few enjoying it whenever I take my walks there. Those who live on its borders must appreciate it most. It is not the fault of the caretakers, for everything is perfect—grass, walks, shrubbery, and flower-beds. Last, but not least, we have the artistic, expensive bandstand and pole, with the Stars and Stripes, which is a great addition, but does not seem to be of much use.

Then again, we have the brook (or the place for one), not the "pond or the mill," but "the bridge and the rock where the cataract fell." Rivers, brooks and rivulets have ever been the theme of poets. Who does not feel a glow when he hears the ardent appeal of Burns to the river:

"Flow gently, sweet Afton among thy green braes Flow gently, I'll sing thee a song in thy praise," etc.

In one of Tennyson's bewildering love poems, "The Brook," is intermingled some cute rhyme verses—The Brook's reply, when asked from whence it came, and here is a sample of them:

"I come from haunts of root and fern.
I make a sudden dally
And sparkle out among the fern
To tinkle down the valley.

By thirty hills I hurry down,
Or slip between the ridges,
By twenty thorns, a little town,
And half a hundred bridges.

I chatter, chatter, as I flow
To join the brimming river,
For men may come, and men may go,
But I go on forever.

But alas! our brook is not like Tennyson's. It does not go on forever. It comes and goes. It comes in the winter when we least need it, also, when there is a spring freshet, and then when the sun gets higher, it settles away with a bad odor, leaving nesting-places for mosquitoes, and is dry the rest of the season, the freshet having torn out much of the stone siding. The source of this brook was in the meadow, which is now the Brothers Field, and that was supplied by never-failing springs above, which must have been checked or turned in the transforming. Now what can we do to remedy this nuisance? Perhaps our Board of Public Works or civil engineers might see some way. One thing could be done: clean it out, lay up the fallen stones, and make the bottom of it smooth; concrete it if necessary. A hasty account of stock in that brook was taken one day, and here it is:—one coal sieve, one broom, one fruit hamper, one tea kettle, two coffee pots, two garden watering-pots, tin pans of every size, cans without number, hoops, sticks, weeds, and grass. When a stranger casts his eyes over the lovely spot and takes a nearer view of the fine bandstand, and then takes a look back at the brook-bed, what must he think? He well might say with "Miss Ophelia," "How shiftless!"

Death

In Fitchburg, October 2, Miss Susanna E. Jackson. Burial from Academy Chapel, Monday, October 5.

Brave Liege

The peasants were reaping the golden grain
In the harvest fields of his wide domain,
When he called them away to shoulder the gun

For his long planned war was now begun.

They had toasted and prayed for the happy day

When the Lord would scatter their foes in dismay;

And frankfurts and lager with the German Band,

Would rule supreme in every land.

Me und Gott and the war machine,
The greatest the world has ever seen.

The Uhlands well armed with sword and lance

Formed a screen for the grand advance,
With bands of music and steps so free

They marched for their goal, the gay Paree.

The soldiers, 'tis said, as they marched along—

Made the land resound with martial song.

"Wacht on the Rhine," they all knew fine

Which was carried along from line to line.

On, on they sped with speed of the hound,

Till they reached fair Belgium's neutral ground:—

There the Kaiser first revealed his plan—

To rush through Belgium every man
Over the border into France,

Surprising the Allies, by the quick advance.

What cared he though he violate

The sacred rights of a neutral state,
They were weak, and had no right

To stand in the way of German Might,
But the best laid schemes go oft astray,

And so it happened on this fatal day,
Leige's forts, both massive and strong,

Bade defiance to the German throng,
And held him at bay like a lion in his lair.

Losing the time that he ill could spare:
Two long weeks did the Patriot band

Hold back the hosts of the Fatherland,
The thin blue line and their deed sublime,

Will resound through the world to the end of time.

McDOUGALL'S MUSINGS

A Round-About Paper

One article that has been made cheaper by the war is cotton. Cotton is said to be "king" because it is so universally worn as clothing. This country is the largest grower of cotton in the world, and from twelve to fourteen million bales are grown annually. It was stated last week in a commercial paper that the South would suffer the loss of sixty or seventy million dollars this year on account of the difference in the price of cotton caused by the war now raging in Europe, and yet some otherwise sensible people tell us that this stupid war cannot injure us as we are independent of any other country!

It is interesting to observe the causes that lead to war. One thing is certain, if there were no soldiers, no cannons, and no warships there would be no war. The conscript system of getting soldiers in continental countries, and so compelling every man unless physically disqualified to join the army, keeps up a large standing army, and unless this compulsory mode of getting soldiers is changed, armaments are not likely to grow smaller.

The German fighting machine is a mighty instrument and in every detail almost perfect, and in this campaign has already taken almost the whole of Belgium and a good slice of France, and for three weeks she has held her ground in the great battle around Paris with France, Belgium and Britain against her. How this war may end or when it will end, or who is right or who is wrong it is not for outsiders to say. War is war, and today with quick-firing guns and all modern appliances, kills its thousands and tens of thousands in a scientific "cultured German" manner!

AUSTRIANS STILL HOLD TARNOW

Vienna Reports That Invaders Are Driven Back

EFFORT TO BESIEGE CRACOW

Claim That Czar's Troops Have Been Defeated in Endeavors to Break Through Front of German Invasion of Russian Poland Threatens Russians with Flank Attack

It is officially announced at Vienna that the Russians invading Galicia in an attempt to besiege the Cracow fortifications have been driven back from the line of the Donajec river by the reinforced Austrian armies.

The Austrians have retaken Nowy Sandec (Neu Sandec) on the southern Galicia railway line just east of the Donajec river, and are still in possession of Tarnow.

The Russians have made several assaults in force on the Austrian positions in the vicinity of Tarnow, but in every instance, it is stated, they have been repulsed.

The battle line in Galicia now extends from the Vistula river just north of Secucin along the line of railroad that parallels the Donajec, connecting the northern and southern Galician lines. The Russians have attempted to advance with two entire armies along the northern and southern lines, but they have been defeated in every attempt they have made to break through the Austrian front. The Austrians are now on the offensive and will endeavor decisively to defeat the Russians and thus raise the siege of Przemyśl.

The Russians will soon be in danger of a flank attack, as the German invasion of Russian Poland from the neighborhood of Bendzin is continuing.

The above dispatch from Vienna, by way of Rome, flatly contradicts the Russian claims that they have occupied Tarnow and were about to cross the Donajec river for the purpose of isolating Cracow.

A dispatch from Petrograd says a report from Lemberg, Galicia, states that Przemyśl, the strong fortress of the Austrians, is being bombarded by Russian heavy artillery.

The damage is considerable, houses being set on fire by bursting shrapnel. All efforts of the Austrian field forces to assist the fort have been unsuccessful and their troops have retreated to Viotslavsk.

It is officially announced from Huzst, Marmaros county, Hungary, that Austrian forces have been heavily engaged with Russians since Monday at a point near Tecso, telegraphs the Amsterdam correspondent of the Reuter Telegram company. The Russians retreated. The battle came to an end near Kricafalva, with complete victory for the Austrians.

Attempt to Recall Mayor of Salem Is Formally Abandoned

The executive committee of the Citizens' league of Salem, Mass., which was organized for the purpose of attempting the recall of Mayor Hurley, announced that the attempt has been abandoned.

No mention was made of the committee's failure to obtain the requisite number of names to recall the mayor. The reason given was that John J. Mack, endorsed by the league, had withdrawn as a candidate for mayor.

NEW PLANT INSTALLED

New Lighting System at Phillips Academy Nearly Completed

The new electric lighting plant, at Phillips Academy, now nearing completion, has been installed in the station with, and is to be part of, the central heating plant at present in operation. In designing the original heating plant, the engineers made every provision for the ultimate installation of a central electric generating station.

The equipment of this new addition consists of duplicate steam-driven generating units, together with a controlling switchboard, piping system, transformers and underground cable system. The engines will be supplied with steam from the heating boilers. After passing through the engines, the exhaust steam will be delivered to the heating system and will be used in the heating of the buildings; the current, thus, during the heating months, becoming practically a by-product, and effecting a marked saving over the present expenditure for electrical service. The engines manufactured by the Ridgeway Dynamo and Engine Co. are connected each to one alternating current generator, also of the above manufacture, and delivering a three-phase current to the switchboard at 2300 volts E.M.F.

Each generating unit is capable of 75 K.V.A. capacity and is designed to operate singly, or when the load warrants it, in parallel with the second generating unit, giving a station capacity of 150 K.V.A.

The two units are controlled by a four-panel switchboard of black Monson slate. This board contains, in addition to the usual instruments necessary for the control of the units, indicating watt-meters by which the load demand at any instant can be seen; and a totalizing wattmeter by which the output of the plant is registered; also a voltage regulator automatically controlling the pressure delivered to the lines, and insuring steady voltage and steady light at all times.

All wiring and connections are on the back of the switchboard, and all instrument wiring, etc., are insulated on the switchboard panels as a protection against accident, due to high voltage.

Service is distributed to the different buildings on three circuits of underground cables, each separately controlled from the switchboard; one circuit controlling Draper and Clement Halls; one circuit controlling all the lighting and power service on the Theological Seminary side of the road; and the remaining circuit controlling all lighting and power on the Phillips Academy side of the road.

The cables are insulated with rubber, sheathed with lead, and further protected from injury by the addition of a tape armor of steel covered with tarred hemp.

The current is delivered to the transformers at 2300 volts, and is then transformed to a pressure of 110-220 volts for use in the buildings. The transformers are installed in pits below the surface of the ground, which drain into the sewer. No high voltage is taken into any building. The transformer system is so designed that each transformer supplies low tension service to a certain group of buildings. Thus, in case of accident to any transformer, only a few buildings would be cut out of service. Spare transformers are provided for use in case of accident or breakdown.

The use of underground cables and transformers thus installed renders accident to the buildings or to the apparatus impossible from lightning or electric storms, due to discharges coming into the building over the wires.

The central heating plant and the present lighting plant were designed and installed under the direction of Richard D. Kimball Co., consulting engineers, of Boston.

Board of Public Works Report

The report of the Superintendent of Street s for the month of September is given below. Since the first of the month the much-needed repairing of Essex street has been completed, as was stated last week, and several minor repairs have been attended to. The water-main has been extended and several sidewalks reconstructed. The report makes a very creditable showing for the past month and the repairing done is much appreciated by the townspeople. In detail:

Highway Dept.—During September many small repairs have been made, including the filling in of Lupine road for about 500 feet. Since this filling, obtained from the ditch dug for the drain on Essex street, was of a clayey nature, it was covered by ashes. These were wet and rolled, making a great improvement in this road. Any material of road-building value taken from the surface of Essex street was hauled to Shawheen road and placed from the residence of Henry Provo to Cuba street. This was a very bad place and this material, well rolled, covered with a little dust, and wet and rolled again, has made a great improvement at a very small cost. Gutters have been made here to take the water that previously had to run in the street. September has also seen a great improvement in Essex street. A blind drain 450 ft. long, 3 ft. wide, and 3 to 3½ ft. deep, filled with stone, was built as near the center of the street as possible. A layer of No. 1 stone averaging six inches in depth was placed from the Square to the railroad crossing, bound with Tarvia X, covered with pea stone and well rolled. Next spring this road will require a coat of Tarvia B and sand. The road contained 3220 sq. yds., costing $1948.00, or 60.5 cents per square yard. Including the drain the total cost was $2075.00, or 64.5 cents per square yard. On High street 350 ft. of 12-inch pipe and 30 ft. of 10-inch pipe were laid, and two catchbasins built, at a cost of $285.68. On Harding street 196 ft. of 15-inch pipe were laid, connected with the 12-inch pipe on High street, and all run into a 24-inch pipe of the B. & M. The 15-inch pipe was placed at a cost of $112.54. Tomorrow will see the completion of the laying of 870 ft. of 12-inch pipe on Maple avenue, costing, with the inclusion of one catchbasin, about $350.

Balance, October 3, 1914, $2,632.80.

Water Dept.—Since the last report the 6-inch line on Chandler road has been completed. The distance laid was 2680 ft., at a cost of $2030.30, or about 76 cents per foot. The work in this department is about completed excepting, of course, the ordinary maintenance.

Balance, October 3, 1914: Maintenance $3,101.84; Construction $724.77.

Sidewalks.—Concrete resurfacing has started and will be completed in about ten days. The expense for sidewalks during September was $512.25.

Balance, October 3, 1914, $873.28.

Sewer Dept.—Balance, October 3, 1914, $325.57.

Park Dept.—Balance, October 3, 1914, $670.35.

Andover 4, Haverhill 0

Andover United defeated Haverhill in a Lawrence and Lowell District league game at Riverside park, Haverhill, Saturday. The weather was ideal and a fair crowd turned out. The first half was fairly even, the Haverhill players making up in aggressiveness what they lacked in football ability. In the first fifteen minutes of the second half the Haverhill boys spent their force and for the remainder of the game were helpless before their clever opponents.

Haverhill kicked off and at once started rushing things, they displayed little team work, however, and could not penetrate the Andover defense. It was half an hour before the United scored, Page breasting the ball into the goal when Hague dropped a shot from Skea which was too hot to hold. After thirty-five minutes play John Deyermund got his first taste of the ball a long shot from Hawkins. The burden of Haverhill's defense rested on Cargill and Hague the custodian being called upon to save frequently. Half time: Andover 1, Haverhill 0.

Right at the start of the second half Jackson and Johnston came together rather hard, the latter being obliged to leave the game for five minutes. Deyermund stopped a soft shot from Drevitt and the ball swung to Haverhill's end, where J. Rae fouled Cairnie in the danger zone. W. Rae was entrusted with the kick but it took him two tries to net the ball the first hitting the bar and rebounding. Almost right after this Jackson handled in the penalty area and Hague made the trip from goal to goal to miss the goal by yards.

Hawkins had a good chance but shot past and at the other end Black forced Hague to concede a corner with a terrific drive. Deyermund finished this sortie by shooting over. The winger lost several chances this way Page was pulled down in the goal area and Rae again took the penalty kick. This time the ball flew straight and the score was three nothing. Clever work by Page carried the ball down and a pass to Deyermund who centered nicely to Cairnie who was between the backs, resulted in Peter scoring the last goal of the match, Hague having no chance to save. Haverhill was completely outclassed now and many clever bits of individual plays by the Andover team delighted the spectators. The game ended with Andover 4, Haverhill 0.

The teams lined up as follows:
Andover: J. Deyermund; Rae, Jackson; Coleman, Downs and Spratt; W. Deyermund, Cairnie, Page, Joe Black and Shea.

Haverhill: Hague; Rae, Cargill; McDermitt; Glass and Forsyth; Mahan, Johnston, Drevitt, Hawkins and Lamond.

Score: Andover, 4; Haverhill, 0.
Referee: John Wilkinson, Lawrence.
Time: 4 minute halves.

Olympic Juniors 7, Thistles 4

The Olympic Juniors of Lawrence gave the Andover Thistle team the first defeat of their career in a league game on the Andover playground before a large crowd of spectators.

The first half was marked by continual fouling and Referee Houghton had absolutely no control of the game. Toward the end of this half he sent Felix Lynch off the field.

The first half, when the Thistles had their full strength, was well contested, with the champions always having the upper hand. Felix Lynch and Maconnachie both scored with splendid shots in the first 20 minutes of play and then the Olympics equalized things through Maugham and Eaton accidentally heading a goal while attempting to clear. Killacky put his team in the lead again, but R. Lynch made it even from a pass by Gilmartin, who cleverly fisted the ball into position unseen by the referee. Maconnachie again gave his team the lead, netting from a scrimmage. The half ended: Thistles 4, Olympics 3.

The Thistles opened with 10 men and shortly afterward F. Nicoll was carried off the field through injuries. With nine players opposed to them, the Olympics had matters their own way and added three goals through Maugham, R. Lynch and Gilmartin, the last being a brilliant effort. The final score: Olympics 7, Thistles 4. The teams lined up as follows:

Olympic Juniors: Morley; H. Hulse, A. Hulse; J. Carney, F. Shone and A. Crowther; S. Kernshaw, Gilmartin, Maugham, R. Lynch and Cousins.

Thistles: K. Spark; A. Robb, A. Eaton; F. Nicoll, J. Anderson and J. Lynch; Caldwell, Maconnachie, F. Lynch, Carnathan and Killacky.

Score: Olympic Juniors 7, Thistles 4.
Referee: Fred Houghton of Lawrence. Linesmen: P. Jennings, D. Robb. Time: 45 minute halves. Attendance, 250.

Andover United football team will play the Lawrence eleven in the Cricket field this week. Both teams are undefeated this season and added to his these clubs are drawn to play in the National Cup competition two weeks later so that great rivalry exists, for the winners of this game will be so much stronger for the contest following. Andover's best team will take the field: J. Deyermund; Rae and Jackson; Coleman, Downs and Black; W. Deyermund, Cairnie, Page, Doherty and Skea.

The Week's Politics

The various political conventions did succeed in getting a little notice in the newspapers, and it is to be assumed that the political contest in Massachusetts is under way. Under the conditions it isn't surprising that those who are responsible for political campaigns are at a loss to know just how to take up the issues, whether to make it a short, sharp campaign or to get busy and cover the State. Appearances indicate that the short campaign is to be the rule, and how sharp it is to be, time will determine.

The Republican ticket has a right to claim recognition this year by every test that can be made of the fitness of the men who are candidates for office. The unfortunate instance in which the Machine attempted to dictate a candidate for auditor is practically forgotten, but we cannot refrain from suggesting before it closes, that the man who did the endorsing of Mr. Monette was not fair to the party members themselves in making the test one of balancing the ticket solely. Mr. Monette had some pretty good qualities of his own to justify him for appointment for this position, and it was on those qualities that he ought to have rested in his campaign. It is probable that he would have thus based his campaign had he been left to himself, but some pretty bad advice messed the whole dough. That sort of advice would better not be continued in the candidacy of the man who succeeded in defeating Mr. Monette.

To be sure Mr. Cook has not a very strong endorsement from some parts of his own county, but he has a very strong endorsement from other parts, and it is not impossible that he has a claim upon the office of Auditor justified by ability and worth. There certainly should be better grounds for bolting his nomination than are suggested by the fact of the defeat he administered to the Republican machine in Massachusetts.

Mr. McCall made just the sort of impression at the convention that was expected of him, and he will be a party leader in the coming campaign of whom every Republican and every independent voter in the State will have reason to be proud. He deserves a victory. He will secure a victory if sanity has spread itself sufficiently among the voters of Massachusetts to restore even partially the old-fashioned lines of Republican and Democratic strength.

The conventions themselves were pretty colorless affairs. The platforms mean just as much as they usually do, and no more, and they are just as important factors in campaigning as they ever were and no more. We are inclined to think that it is very fortunate that this is so; for some of the things uttered in sincerity would better have been left unsaid, and some of the things uttered as pure buncombe are understood that way. The voting public isn't very much deceived upon the issues, and the voters are pretty sure to be informed where now they are in doubt, without very much recourse to party platforms.

Obituary

SUSANNA E. JACKSON

Miss Susanna E. Jackson, a well-known resident of Andover for many years, died suddenly at the home of her niece in Fitchburg on Friday night of last week. She was buried from the Academy chapel on Monday afternoon, Rev. M. W. Stackpole and Rev. J. Austin Richards of Boston conducting the service.

A Tribute

In the death of Susanna Jackson, Andover loses one of, if not the most ardent admirer of the town itself and its history. Her pride in it was very genuine and great. She loved to dwell on its past, on the days when Andover was conspicuous in theological circles throughout the world. It was with unfailing delight that she recalled the palmy days of the world-wide reputation of the Theological Seminary and its professors. To her it was a great personal loss when the institution moved to Cambridge. During her later life Miss Jackson's mind dwelt more and more in the past. Sad for her as it must have been, as indeed she often confessed it was, she loved to recall the past and knew the history of Andover as few others knew it. I wish she had written more of her early days when with her family she was so intimately associated with life on the hill. She was a close observer, a lucid writer, and her life was led through a period of wonderful Christian thought and development. She was intensely religious, of unbounded faith, but a liberal Christian, of broad sympathy and great charity. She had a keen wish to travel, to see other countries, but never complained because she could not. She enjoyed luxury but never rebelled because it was denied her. I personally know her sadness of heart of late years, how deeply she missed her friends and the old conditions, but her last letter of but a few weeks ago held no complaint but was filled with interesting facts about Andover as she found it during her usual summer visit. Her death is a member years ago, when a pretty little clubhouse was located on the Andover cricket field and had hardly been placed in position before a gang of hoodlums of that generation got busy and made all possible mess that they could around the building. Now on the same site the Cricket Club have constructed another building and with their own toil have attempted to beautify it with paint and in other ways, only to have the work interfered with by a second generation of the same hoodlum type. Perhaps this is the way the boys have of letting their excess spirits get a vent, but it doesn't give to the town any better character, nor does it serve any ends for the benefit of any persons. A good, stiff reprimand at the hands of the local trial justice, with a fine attached, would be only a partially well-deserved punishment, if once these mischief makers could be apprehended.

Founders' Day at Phillips Academy has become an annual event of importance. This year like last is to link the old with the new, and the celebration like that of last year, is to bring to Andover distinguished speakers and men who will join in other ways the age of the Founders with the present age of the Developers. As last year was very much a Yale day, this year is to take on much of the Harvard flavor, and Andover is fortunate in being able to call to this important celebration the services of such distinguished men as Mr. Phillips, who represents the founders by name, tradition and heritage, and President Lowell, who represents the nation's most important educational institution.

The Boston Weather Bureau announces that the month of September was the driest month in the history of that department. Those who have any way of testing conditions will agree with this statement from their own experience. While many people have rejoiced that the dry spell did not come until after most of the crops had matured, they do not want to forget that the very serious present condition means bad crops another year unless a great deal of rain shall come in the next few weeks. Seed-time and harvest, and growing-time in between, all need rain, and it is difficult to tell which part needs it most. When it is seed-time, as it is now, for many important crops, some people believe that that is the most crying period for a little rain.

The death of Miss Susanna Jackson is of more than passing interest to Andover. Her life has been a long and rarely useful one in this community. Of the old Andover by connection and through a loyalty to old Andover traditions, she had her mind always attuned to the new Andover, the growing Andover, the Andover that must come through changes from old ideas to new ideas but always through the same ideals. Her life was a constant contribution to all that was best, and many men and women who knew her hardly more than by name, will hear of her passing with deep regret, because through her writings and in other ways, she had made her life such a strong influence for all the good things in this community.

great personal loss—another link with the past gone. But, as I say, Andover has lost a champion and the world a true, warm-hearted Christian woman. I honored her living and I honor her memory. So too must all who knew her.

Anniversary Celebrated

Last Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Perry on Elm street, the eleventh anniversary of their marriage was celebrated in a quiet but pleasing manner, by an informal card-party. The house was very prettily decorated for the occasion with autumn leaves and flowers and produced a very festive appearance. Whist was enjoyed until a late hour.

A supper table, decorated in pink and lavishly covered with good things, took the guests away from their cards for a short time, after which greetings to the host and hostess, and many wishes for the further continuance of a happy wedded life were given.

PRESENTED WITH LOVING CUP

Worshipful Master George M. R. Holmes, St. Matthews Lodge, Surprised by Staff of Christian Science Monitor

SOLID SILVER LOVING CUP, PRESENTED TO GEORGE M. R. HOLMES
 Worshipful Master of St. Matthews Lodge, A. F. and A. M.

St. Matthews lodge, A. F. and A. M., enjoyed a very pleasant occasion on Monday evening in connection with its regular meeting, when the Master, George M. R. Holmes was presented with a very handsome loving-cup by members of the fraternity from the Christian Science Monitor office in Boston. The presentation came as a great surprise to Mr. Holmes as well as to the local members of the lodge, who were not aware that there was anything unusual to occur in connection with the conferring of the Master Mason degree. Plans for the presentation had proceeded quietly among the members of the craft in the Monitor office, where Mr. Holmes is a member of the staff. It was a great surprise to him when thirty-five of these friends entered the lodge-room, and his hearty welcome showed his appreciation, but later, when one of the number in appropriate and flattering terms presented him with a loving-cup in token of their friendship and esteem, his surprise was only exceeded by his admiration of the gift.

As best he could he replied to the spokesman of the party.

The third degree was conferred on two candidates, one of them being raised by Fred S. Fairchild, Master of Dalhousie lodge of Melrose. Refreshments were served and the visiting brothers were accorded an informal reception. Among those present were: Archibald McLellan, Oscar L. Stevens, John J. Flinn, James L. Bruce, Charles D. Warner, Amor Weston, Roy H. Hetherington, William S. Allen, Arthur L. Small, R. J. Davis, Edwin L. Russell, Thomas R. Winans, Louis Sigismund, Joseph W. Bonney, W. S. Elliott, Ralph D. Cole, W. J. Irving Brown, M. B. Boyle, J. W. Phelps, G. W. Pethybridge, A. P. Roberts, F. S. Fairchild, F. W. Fifield, W. H. Gowdy, John R. Jackson, George H. Clark, Claude R. Marvin, Paul S. Deland, Curtis Ellis, J. C. Dow, J. S. Hollyday, and F. E. H. Greenwood, all of the Monitor office; Horace Martin, Amasa Harrington, H. M. Richmond of Winchester, and F. P. Miller of Columbus, Mo.

NEW AUTO FIRE ENGINE ARRIVES

Trials Made last Monday. Apparatus Accepted by Selectmen and Board of Fire Engineers

The new automobile fire engine which the town voted to purchase at its March meeting this year arrived in Andover on Saturday of last week and has taken its place as a part of the excellent fire-fighting apparatus which the town now possesses.

The machine is certainly a beauty in its coat of bright red paint with green and gold trimmings, its shining nickel lamps, bell, rail and hose basket, but the real beauty from the firemen's point of view lies in its worth as a conqueror of fires with its powerful engine capable of pumping from 350 to 987 gallons of water per minute.

The Selectmen and Board of Fire Engineers have given considerable time and thought to this truck and they have the assurance of the makers that there has been nothing left undone to make the engine as perfect as it is possible to get.

The engine was given its first test on Monday afternoon, the Selectmen, engineers and a few invited guests having an opportunity to ride on it over some of the worst hills in town. The speed and hill-climbing tests came up to the full expectation of the officials and at Frye Village bridge the pumping tests were held. From records kept by both the engineers and the makers of the truck every test exceeded those called for in the contract. This is considered very gratifying when it is remembered that at no time was the engine pushed to its full capacity. To many present the sight of two streams of water at the same time, rising to a height of twenty to fifty feet above the mill chimney, was the most interesting feature. The chimney is 125 feet in height. A stream from a 1 1/2-inch nozzle was thrown 175 feet.

The machine is the product of the American La France Company of Elmira, N. Y. It is equipped with a six-cylinder of the newest pattern. It also has a chemical tank with 250 feet of hose attached. The main body of the car will carry 1200 feet of regular fire hose. There are also a 24-foot extension ladder and a 20-foot roof ladder. One of the most important parts of the equipment is a revolving cellar nozzle. This is a new invention in fire apparatus and has proved very effective. Among the other important items of the equipment are two 3-gallon Babcock chemicals, Detroit door-opener, 15-gallon gas tank back of the seat, a 30-gallon gas tank in the rear of the car, 12-inch locomotive bell, latest type siren horn, towing hooks on the back of car to pull down burning timbers or for towing purposes, 10 feet of soft suction hose, and 20 feet of rubber hose, axes, bars, pike-poles, etc.

The engine is rated at 105 horsepower, and although slower than the truck purchased three years ago, can attain a speed of 45 miles an hour. Being more powerful than the other it can climb hills at a rate of about five miles an hour faster.

Following the tests on Monday a meeting of the Selectmen, engineers, and representatives of the makers was held and the car was accepted by the town. It was immediately placed in commission and is now ready for service.

Founders' Day will be observed tomorrow at Phillips Academy, the custom being inaugurated a year ago with an elaborate program of exercises. This occasion, however, is planned to be much more simple, but a great deal of interest is prevalent because of the dedication of the new Memorial Gateway which will take place at 11.30 o'clock. Hon. William Phillips, third assistant secretary of state at Washington at Washington, will formally present the gateway to the school, the acceptance to be made by Alfred L. Ripley, president of the Board of Trustees.

Other addresses will be made by President A. Lawrence Lowell of Harvard University and Principal Perry of Exeter besides Principal Stearns. In the afternoon a program of sports is arranged. It will, of course, be a holiday for the students of the Academy and the interest of the townspeople is also very keen. The program in detail and brief sketches of the speakers are given below.

Principal Perry of Exeter

The following account of Lewis Perry, the new Principal of the Phillips Exeter Academy, is by President Hyde of Bowdoin College:

"After six months of deliberation, and out of some sixty persons considered, the trustees of The Phillips Exeter Academy unanimously elected as principal Lewis Perry, professor of English Literature in Williams College. Principal Perry is the son of Arthur Latham Perry, LL.D., for many years Professor of Political Economy in Williams College. He was born in Williamstown, January 3, 1877, graduated from Lawrenceville School in 1894, and from Williams College in 1898, and received the degree of A. M. from Princeton in 1899. He married Lawrie Hubbell, of New York, November 11, 1911.

"He was a master at Lawrenceville School, 1899-1901; instructor in English at Williams College, 1901-1914; assistant professor of English Literature at Williams College, 1904-1911; and since has been professor of English Literature in Williams College, teaching Elizabethan drama, English prose writers of the nineteenth century, and public speaking. This spring a speaker trained by him won the prize in the New England Public Speaking League.

"He has been president of the Williamstown Council of Boy Scouts of America. He was a member of the Williams baseball nine, and recently defeated the Williams College champion at tennis. He has been an influential member of the Williams College Athletic Council. He is a member of the Alpha Delta Phi Fraternity. In 1908 he edited Marlowe's Jew of Malta. He recently declined the offer of a college presidency.

"The trustees have received the assurances from those who have been associated with him at Lawrenceville and Williamstown that he combines in an unusual degree sound scholarship, effective teaching, ability as a public speaker, a winning personality, a love of boys, a sense of humor, skill in athletics, a great admiration for the work of a schoolmaster, high character, and progressive educational ideals. They are confident that while firmly maintaining the strenuous traditions of hard intellectual work which prevail at Exeter, he will attack successfully the chief problem of the secondary school, the problem of giving at that stage an education which shall not be mainly a cram for examinations; but an earnest and thoughtful study of subjects for their own sakes, and as a foundation for life-long enjoyment of intellectual pursuits."

President Lowell

Abbott Lawrence Lowell, LL.D., President of Harvard, was born in Boston, December 13, 1856. He graduated from Harvard with high honors in 1878, being distinguished also for athletic ability. He practiced law in Boston for seventeen years and served at one term on the Boston School Committee. From 1897-1909 he was professor of Political Science at Harvard, attaining great popularity as a lecturer. His most notable publication, "The Government of England," in two volumes, appeared in 1908. He was inaugurated as President of Harvard University in 1909. His five years of leadership at the great New England University have been made notable by a new system of entrance examinations, important modifications of the elective system of studies, the erection of the magnificent new Widener Library, and the introduction of the great system of Freshman dormitories. His position as a leader in American Education is already assured and like his predecessor, Dr. Eliot, he is a recognized force in public affairs. As administrator, writer, and speaker, President Lowell measures up to the high demands of his office. He speaks at Phillips Academy for the first time to-morrow and his coming is not only a compliment to the school, but also a recognition of the close relations between Andover and Harvard that marked the early decades of the Academy's history and have been happily renewed during the past generation.

Hon. William Phillips

Hon. William Phillips will give an informal address of presentation at the dedication of the new Memorial Gateway to-morrow.

Mr. Phillips is descended in a direct line from John Phillips (1701-1768), who was a son of Samuel Phillips, the goldsmith of Salem and a brother of Rev. Samuel Phillips (1711-1771), the first minister of the Old South Church in Andover. One of his ancestors, Hon. John Phillips (1770-1823), was the first mayor of Boston. His father, the late John C. Phillips, gave to Phillips Academy in 1878 the sum of $25,000 for the establishment of the John C. Phillips Professorship of Latin, now held by Professor Charles H. Forbes.

HON. WILLIAM PHILLIPS who will present Gateway

Hon. William Phillips was born in 1878, the year of the centennial of Phillips Academy, and was educated at Harvard. Since that time he has been interested in the diplomatic service, having held important positions in the embassies at London and other foreign posts. For a short time he held the position of Regent at Harvard College. His recent nomination as third Assistant Secretary of State was received everywhere with approval, even by papers avowedly hostile to the present administration. He himself is a fine type of public-spirited citizen, maintaining the traditions set for him by a line of distinguished ancestors, of active service to the state.
As a donor of the new Phillips Memorial Gateway Mr. Phillips is associated with his brother, Dr. John Phillips of Wenham, and his sisters, Mrs. John Bolling of North Beverly and Mrs. Andrew J. Peters of Washington.

Principal Alfred E. Stearns

Dr. Stearns has now served as Principal of Phillips for twelve years. His achievements in the development of the school are well known. Already his administration far surpasses all others in the erection of new buildings and extension of school property. The largest gifts to the school funds have also been secured in these recent years. But more notable still has been the success of Dr. Stearns in maintaining high standards of discipline without the loss of personal popularity. He has the complete confidence and support of the alumni, never more active and generous than now, and the influence of his buoyant and forceful personality is an immeasurably important factor in the school life itself. Like his predecessor, Dr. Bancroft, Dr. Stearns has been an active citizen and with all his important duties he still finds time at present to serve upon the school committee.

A Sketch of the History of Phillips Academy

Phillips Academy was opened in a small shop on Andover Hill in 1778, one hundred and thirty-six years ago last April. It was the pioneer school of its type in America. In 1785 an adequate school building of two stories was erected near the present site of the administration building. This building served for more than thirty years. During these early years the equipment, according to our modern standards, was very meagre. The boys all lived in private houses. There were no athletic grounds. The first three principals were Eliphalet Pearson, Ebenezer Pemberton, and Mark Newman.

In 1810 the fourth principal of the school, John Adams, began his notable administration of twenty-two years. This period showed an attendance reaching at one date more than one hundred and fifty. There were improvements in the curriculum, and the reputation of the academy was extended. The present dining hall was erected as the main school building in 1818. Dr. Adams was especially strong in maintaining the religious spirit of the school.

After the brief principalship of the scholarly and beloved Osgood Johnson, Samuel H. Taylor took charge in 1837. He was principal for thirty-four years, a rigid disciplinarian and yet a kindly man at heart. He became famous throughout the country as a teacher of the classics and his personal reputation was the school's great asset. During many years of this period the center of the school life was the Old Stone Academy, which stood near the corner of Chapel avenue and Main street. In 1865 the present main recitation hall was completed. In the days of "Uncle Sam" Taylor the numbers at times reached nearly 400.

After the brief administration of Frederick W. Tilton, another noteworthy period in the history of the school began under the leadership of Cecil F. P. Bancroft, principal from 1873-1901. Dr. Bancroft's great work consisted in adopting the curriculum to modern educational standards, in developing a larger scheme of school management, and in raising the school's prestige. The latter part of his administration witnessed an increase of numbers to four and even five hundred students. In Dr. Bancroft's day the beginnings of the present dormitory system were made, with the construction of Andover, Pemberton, Eaton and Draper Cottages and Bancroft Hall. Graves Hall was erected during his principalship and he lived to see the completion of the Borden Gymnasium and the beginning of the Archaeology Building.

After Dr. Bancroft's death in 1901 the school was for a year in the charge of Professor William B. Graves and then Mr. Alfred E. Stearns became Vice-Principal. In 1903 Mr. Stearns was elected principal. Of the present administration an account will be found in another column.

Andover's Veteran Teachers

Matthew S. McCurdy has been a teacher of mathematics at Phillips Academy for forty-one years. He graduated at Dartmouth in 1873 and came directly to Andover. "Mac" has been beloved by many generations of Phillips' boys.

Professor William B. Graves, a graduate of Amherst, first came to Phillips Academy in 1866 in the days of Dr. Samuel Taylor. After three years as instructor in science he became a professor of science in the Massachusetts Agricultural college at Amherst. Returning to Andover in 1881 he served as Professor of Natural Science till 1908, when he became Professor-Emeritus. Twice he has shared in the duties of principalship. Professor Graves' connection with the Academy extends over a period of thirty-six years.

Another veteran teacher who has instructed and advised thousands of Andover students is George T. Eaton, also an Amherst man, whose record covers a period of thirty-four years as instructor in Mathematics. Mr. Eaton is an authority regarding the alumni list and has given indefatigable effort to the perfecting of the alumni records.

AT THE THEATRES

BOSTON THEATRES

WILBUR

William Hodge is in the fifth week of his big success at the Wilbur theatre, Boston, where "The Road to Happiness" is being traveled every night by a host of playgoers, who find that the play sends them away feeling better and life looking brighter. The Wednesday matinee is a popular one and on Monday, October 12, there will be a special Columbus Day matinee.

Some of the sentiments expressed by Jim Whitman, village youth and optimist, the new character impersonated by Hodge in this piece, bear the same element of homely thought as did the sayings of Daniel Voorhees Pike, the role Mr. Hodge made famous in "The Man from Home." The title of the play comes from the lines expressed by Mr. Hodge as the young optimist: "Courage and honesty and truth—these form the road to happiness. If you have not courage, borrow it."

TREMONT TEMPLE

D'Annunzio's massive spectacular photo-drama, "Cabiria," began its fourth week at the Tremont Temple Monday, with the usual afternoon and evening performance.

The interest in this most wonderful of all motion pictures, with its orchestral and choral accompaniment, does not flag; on the contrary, the business has increased each succeeding week. The engagement of "Cabiria" in Boston is for an indefinite period, still all engagements must end some time and it would be well for everyone interested in things literary, historical, musical and dramatic to see this most stupendous exhibition as soon as possible. There are two performances daily, at 2 and 8 p.m.

BOSTON THEATRE

The enthusiastic reception accorded the opening of the grand opera season at the Boston theatre last Monday evening, by both press and public, dispelled every element of skepticism that may have been entertained by those who questioned that high-class grand opera could be produced at a popular scale. Never in the history of the historic Boston theatre did a more brilliant gathering of opera-lovers display such profound enthusiasm. From the rise to the drop of the curtain the performance was frequently interrupted by enthusiastic applause.

The success scored by the principal artists was distinctly praiseworthy. Madame Johanna Kristoffy, the leading soprano of the Hof Opera in Vienna, proved herself to be a prima donna of excellent training. Her work is characterized with great charm and expression. Blanche Hamilton Fox, the mezzo soprano and a Boston girl, likewise scored a tremendous hit. Giuseppe Tricario proved that he is one of the few dramatic tenors who can compare with Caruso, Zanabelli and Tamagno.

An excellent repertoire has been arranged for next week. There will be a special matinee on Monday, Columbus Day, October 12, when that supreme favorite, "Trovatore," will be sung with Kathryn Lynbrook as Leonora, Blanche Hamilton Fox as Azucena, Luigi Mainiero as Manrico and Pietro Gallazzi as Count di Luna. On Monday evening "Othello" will be offered, with Mmes. Kristoffy and Renis and the MM. Corradetti, Tricario and di Biasi. The same opera will be repeated on Wednesday matinee. On Tuesday and Friday evenings "Rigoletto" will be the offering, with Miriam Ardini as Gilda. The other principal artists will include Alice Sentele as Maddalena, Millo Pico as Rigoletto, Joseph Florian as Sparacucile and Umberto Sacchetti as the Duke di Mantova. On Wednesday evening and Saturday matinee the first double bill will be presented in "Cavalleria Rusticana" and "Pagliacci," with Blanche Hamilton Fox, Cara Sapin, Pietro Gallazzi and Umberto Sacchetti as the principal artists in the first mentioned, and Dora de Philippe, David Silva, Guglielmo Giuliani, Millo Pico and Giuseppe Opezzo as the leading artists in the latter. For Thursday and Saturday evenings "The Barber of Seville" will be sung. No matter what the opera or who the star the popular scale of prices will always remain the same.

Beginning this week the North Andover clubhouse will be thrown open Wednesday evenings to the members of the Woman's auxiliary and the Men's club. All the privileges of the clubhouse will be placed at the disposal of the Wednesday day night attendants, and plans for unique social functions to occur on these evenings are now being discussed.

Upon receiving a petition signed by more than ten voters, the number required, the board of selectmen Monday night voted to call a special town meeting to be held in the town hall on the afternoon of Saturday, October 17, to consider the advisability of accepting and laying out Riverview street from North Main street easterly to the residence of Patrick McCarthy, a distance of 1000 feet, as a public way. In the meantime the advisory board will be called to meet by the selectmen to consider the project and prepare its report to be submitted to the voters at the special town meeting. The voters at the last annual town meeting voted to install the water system through the street provided it was determined to be a public highway. Sutton Mills protested on the ground that the street was a private way and the property of that concern. Litigation was threatened and the selectmen finally decided to allow the voters to pass upon the question at a special town meeting. The expense involved and other details will probably be presented by the advisory board at the meeting.

As yet the selectmen have not heard anything from the Essex County commissioners regarding the relocation of Railroad street, near the Immaculate Conception cemetery, a hearing on which was held a few weeks ago.

Repairs are being made on the roadway at Railroad square by Highway Surveyor Dow. The street car companies have not yet made the repairs expected of them and as a result their tracks do not conform to the grade of the street, and unless the repairs are done before winter sets in there is likely to be trouble with the ice on the car tracks during the winter.

Miss Arolina M. Goodwin of Methuen had a narrow escape from serious injury Saturday near the Hoosac tunnel. She was riding in one of the cars of a special Hoosac Tunnel and Wilmington train which ran off the tracks and rolled down a high embankment. Luckily Miss Goodwin was not seriously hurt, but received a shaking up and some minor bruises.

The fire department was called to the peat meadow near Mystic pond Monday afternoon by still alarm, to assist in checking the fire which has been smouldering there for a month. It broke out in such proportions that the firemen had to be called upon. At five in the afternoon there was an alarm from Box 21, calling the department to Piedmont park, Pelham street, to extinguish a fire in a small building owned by Robert Gaffney. The loss was small.

Residents of the Hampshire road district are preparing a petition for better car service on the Massachusetts Northeastern. The citizens of this section of the town appeared before the selectmen and the management of the road last spring and asked for extra cars in the early morning and at 5.30 o'clock in the evening. At that time open cars were placed on the line as extras, but now since the closed cars have been put on, the same number of cars are not enough to look after the traffic on this section of the line, according to one of the residents of this part of the town.

The Massachusetts Northeastern St. Railway company has not yet notified the selectmen as to whether the conditions imposed in the granting of the relocation of car tracks on Jackson street were acceptable. Manager Woodman would not agree to them when he held a conference in the matter with the selectmen, but as yet he has not sent the selectmen any word of the definite acceptance or rejection. The selectmen have sent Manager Woodman a letter requesting that certain changes be made in the car tracks at Railroad square that the proper grade may be established in that street.

Phillips Academy Notes

The Athletic Advisory Board has abolished lacrosse and in its place outdoor basketball will be substituted. Lacrosse has been tried for three years at the Academy, but failed to make much impression on the students. Last year a regular team was organized and a schedule arranged, but the team received no support from the student body, and this and the expense attending it led the Advisory Board to abolish it.

At a meeting of the school held in the Phillips chapel an election of managers for tennis, wrestling and gymnasium was held. Boylston, Makepeace and Randall receiving the highest number of votes in the order named. The choice of managing any of these teams was given to the one receiving the highest vote.

At the close of the class games Saturday afternoon Head Coach Lillard announced the names of the players to compose the varsity squad, which is as follows: 1915—Capt. Avery, Sheehan, Thompson, Young, Guppy, Donnelly, Cowles, Pratt, Walthew, Ireland, Cox, Bowman, Merrick, Flynn, Fellowes; 1916—Sanborn, Gleason, D. C. Burham, Conway, Fitzgerald, Wilson, Ashley, Crocker, Thomas, Alderman, and Keith; 1917—Gould, H. Doyle, A. Russell, W. Russell, Wolfe, Winters, Allen.

The schedule:
Oct. 17—Cushing Academy at Andover
Oct. 24—Dartmouth '18 at Andover
Oct. 31—Yale Fresh at New Haven
Nov. 7—Harvard Fresh at Cambridge
Nov. 14—Exeter at Andover
The annual game with Exeter is a week later than usual so that the Andover team are really two weeks better off as far as developing team work is concerned than a year ago.

The Congregational Ladies Aid Society will hold their first supper of the season in the church vestry next Wednesday evening, October 14. All members and those who wish to become members are cordially invited to be present.

The hose wagon has been brought down from the center and placed in the Ballardvale engine house, together with the pair of horses that go with it. This gives the local hose company as good, if not better, equipment than any village of its size in the state. While Driver Haggerty will miss his favorite span of horses for a while, he will undoubtedly in a short time bring these younger and faster horses up to the required efficiency.

There was a good attendance at the special "Peace Service" at the Congregational church on Sunday forenoon. Rev. A. H. Fuller gave an able and practical address on the unspeakable horrors and sufferings caused by the great European war and made a strong plea for international peace. In the evening at the Methodist church Rev. James King gave a stirring address on the topic, "Do Strong Armies and Navies Prevent War?" The speaker proved conclusively that strong armies and navies are liable to cause a resort to war on even trivial excuse. He with great earnestness warned this country to beware of the temptation that had overcome the great European nations, and to always stand for peace and Godliness.

Meeting of Mothers' Club

There was a large attendance Tuesday afternoon at the meeting of the Mothers' Club in the kindergarten room. The principal feature of the meeting was the graphic and vivid account given by Miss Cynthia Flint of her recent "Telegram tour" through Europe.

The speaker brought out very clearly the trials and privations that had to be endured by all tourists on account of the war and in her characteristic manner held the undivided attention of her hearers to the end of her address.

Four new candidates joined the club. The refreshments were served by the following efficient hospitality committee: Mrs. Freeman Abbott (chairman), Mrs. Holmes E. Bates and Mrs. Ralph Bruce.

Public School Notes

Considerable business was transacted at the monthly meeting of the School Committee held last Tuesday evening. A petition came in from the Bailey school district for an assistant at that school. The parents think that as there is only one teacher for the nine grades, and there are thirty-five pupils, another teacher is needed. Nothing can be done at this time, however, on account of lack of funds. A request from the High school principal for an assistant to Miss Chapin, the business course teacher, was refused for the same reason. The resignations of Miss Moriarty and Miss Riley were read and accepted, new teachers to be secured as soon as possible.

A communication was read from State Inspector of buildings Carey requesting the installation of fire extinguishers, the erection of exit signs and also the placing of handrails on the stairway leading to the basement in the North school.

The attention of the committee was called to the probable insufficient heating during the cold weather of the Pumphard hall which is being used as a class room at the High school. The matter was referred to the committee on repairs and equipment.

The financial statement for the month showed the following expenditures: Schools, $3,888.65; school houses, $750.99; books and supplies, $309.68; North school addition, $894.

Miss Jessie Brown substituted for Miss Katherine Hannon on Thursday at the John Dove school.

Miss Alice Coutts substituted as teacher for Miss Duval one day this week on account of Miss Duval's illness.

Andover Guild

The Guild season opens tomorrow night with a rally from eight to eleven, to which all former and all prospective members and their friends are invited. A program of unusual interest has been arranged with Mrs. P. G. Moore, vocal soloist; Mr. A. N. Alexander, flute soloist; and Mr. John MacDonald, reader. At this time also class announcements will be made as the registration and work begin for boys, Thursday, October 15, for senior girls, Friday, October 16, and for junior girls, Saturday morning, October 17. Refreshments and dancing with music by the Columbian orchestra will close the evening.

Tomorrow afternoon, from three to five, a party will be given to the junior members of the Guild and their friends. Class announcements, games, music and refreshments will fill the program for the little girls.

Change at Colonial Theatre

Manager Charles Warden of the Colonial theatre announces that he has decided to change the system of pictures at his Essex street playhouse and hopes thereby to interest and entertain the public with high-class and instructive films. Since the opening of the theatre the pictures have been almost wholly of the melodrama or comedy type, but with the changes contemplated plays from noted authors and playwrights will be shown with one Keystone every night.

Mr. Warden has already contracted for some fine films, and an excellent program will be furnished. Starting tonight the great Tannhauser production entitled "Frou-Frou," with James Cruze, will be shown.

On Monday, Columbus Day, "The Wrath of the Gods" will be shown. This film comes here after a long run at the Strand theatre in New York City. There will be a matinee at 2.15 and the evening shows will start at 6.45 and 8.15. For this day the management has arranged for a few reserved seats.

On Tuesday evening "The Million Dollar Mystery" will be shown, with an entire change from the Monday show. "Old Glory," or "The Stars and Stripes in Mexico," will be the feature on Wednesday. This is a four-reel film and said to be excellent.

For Friday and Saturday "The Perils of Pauline" will be the feature and there will be four other good pictures. Among the good photo-plays coming soon are "The Man of the Hour," "The Dollar Mark," and "The Whip."

Reception to Mr. Bemis

Dr. Edward C. Conroy of this town attended a reception given to former superintendent of schools, George M. Bemis, at Revere, Wednesday evening. The reception was given by the school committee and teachers' association to Mr. Bemis to manifest their appreciation of him and his work as superintendent of the Revere schools.

There were about two hundred in attendance and the spirit of good will and fellowship was abroad. Dr. Conroy, as a former member of the school committee from Andover, spoke of the fine work that Mr. Bemis had accomplished in this town, and said that his leaving Andover schools was the occasion for deep regret to the townspeople. His cooperation with the town's business life and his career as a citizen were of the highest order and Dr. Conroy congratulated the people of Revere on having such a man as head of their school department.

The Revere school committee were unanimous in their praise of Mr. Bemis and his work thus far, and felt that they had made no mistake in their selection of a superintendent.

Dr. Conroy was very much pleased at the feeling expressed, and, while sorry that Mr. Bemis had to leave his work here, was glad he had been received with so much enthusiasm and good fellowship by the people of Revere.

Andover Commended

The Commonwealth of Massachusetts The following letter of commendation reflects credit on the town as being one of the few to send in its returns on the primaries promptly, which credit is due to Town Clerk George A. Higgins for his efficiency in the matter.

Office of the Secretary

Dear Sir: Permit me to express to you my sincere appreciation of the care and attention given to the duties required of you in connection with the primaries. Your promptness has contributed much to the success of the work of this department.

Plattelicher, instructor in music at Phillips Academy, has planned the following Wednesday afternoon recitals for the coming winter: a Christmas recital on Christmas carols, the Wednesday before the Christmas holidays; during the winter term at Phillips, a Beethoven piano recital; a Handel organ concerto recital; a popular overture organ recital, two flute recitals, one violin recital, one song recital and four piano-organ Wagner recitals embracing the preludes to Rienzi, The Flying Dutchman, Lohengrin, Tannhauser, Tristan and Isolde, the Meistersinger, and leading motifs from the Ring and Parsifal.

New Telephone System Nearly Ready

The new telephone system is rapidly nearing completion and it is expected that the latter part of this month the "cut over" will be made.

The patrons will be notified of the exact date and every precaution will be taken to prevent any break in the service. To insure this, careful tests of every part of the mechanism have to be made and a large amount of temporary work and wiring done, both inside and out.

The operators at "Central" have all been instructed in the manipulation of the new switchboard which includes many features tending to improve the handling of calls, both local and toll.

The collection taken last Sunday afternoon at Christ church at the Peace Service amounted to $68.28. This is very gratifying to the pastor and vestry, as it is to go toward the Red Cross relief work abroad.

Castle Escalibur

The first convolve of the season for the Castle Escalibur K. O. K. A. was held in the vestry of the South church last Tuesday evening. The coronation of the king-elect, William Abbott, and the installation of the following officers took place: Seneschal, Dana Lowd; Constable, Everett Collins; Sentinel, Kenneth Pike; Herald of the Cross, Judson Dean; Herald of the Flag, William Holden. After the coronation refreshments were served and games of knightly skill were played. There were a large number present and three more will be initiated at the next meeting, October 20th.

The McTernan Rubber Mfg. Co. of Reading is entering extensively into the manufacture of rubber heels and soles. They have contracted to make in large quantities the "Ever Ready Transferable Rubber Heels"—the patent of Louis Curelier and William Green of Halifax, N. S. A patent of O. R. Witter, who has been identified with the company for some time, is also to be pushed. The goods are made of new composition of unusually long-wearing qualities. One of the men who recently became financially interested in the company is Col. A. H. Goetting of Springfield. The above statement is made in last week's Reading Chronicle and will be of interest to Andover readers, as several Andover men are employed and Andrew McTernan of this town is head of the concern.

Who the Uhlans Are

The Uhlans, of whom we hear so much just now, may be taken as a title descriptive of German cavalry in general. The name has struck because of the fame which they attained by their dash and bravery during the Franco-German War. But the Uhlans, or, as it is generally spelt now, Ulans, are a distinctive corps. The name is by no means distinctively German. A body of Uhlans was formed for the French army by Marshal Saxe. They were introduced into the Prussian service in 1740, and forty years later the Austrians also had a corps of Uhlans—light cavalry armed with the lance. The modern Uhlans may be classed with the heavy cavalry, for they ride at over twenty stone—
